Read the steps below for painting a room and then answer questions 28-30.

Steps to Paint a Room

1. Ceiling: Paint across the narrow dimension of a room in strips 2-3 feet wide. If you use a roller, attach a long-handled extension so that you can paint while standing on the floor. Paint the ceiling first in order to avoid drips on surfaces that you have just painted.
2. Walls (with brush): Paint a strip 3 feet wide from ceiling down to floor. Repeat across wall and around room. Painting a succeeding strip before the first one has dried will eliminate unsightly lap marks.
3. Walls (with roller): Paint all wall and ceiling corners and around windows and doors with a brush first. For best coverage, roll up and down in a zigzag pattern, then blend across with horizontal strokes. Start in a dry area and roll toward one that was just painted to avoid lap marks.
4. Woodwork and Windows: Using slow brush strokes, brush the enamel first in one direction, then level it by brushing across. (If you paint woodwork too quickly, the brush may skip across tiny depressions.)
5. Floors: For best results, the floor should be clean, dry, sanded, and vacuumed. Two coats of paint are recommended.

28. When using a roller to paint walls, you should:

- A. Paint around windows and doors last.
- B. Paint in strips 3 feet wide.
- C. Roll up and down in a zigzag pattern.
- D. Use two coats of paint.

29. The directions suggest painting the ceiling first because:

- A. Drips will matter less.
- B. The lap marks are more obvious.
- C. It is most difficult.
- D. A roller or a brush can be used.

30. When painting with a roller, work from a dry area to a wet area because:

- A. It uses less paint.
- B. It cuts down on unnecessary movement.
- C. It helps to avoid lap marks.
- D. It makes the roller last longer.

Read the news story below then answer questions 46-50.

The Midwest Solar Energy Society will sponsor a day-long solar home tour on Saturday, April 5th, beginning at 8 a.m. Featured on the outing is Hickory Hill, a 25-unit development with 10 apartments built in Middleton by Kenwood Homes. Twelve solar energy collectors per unit provide most of the hot water and space heating to the apartments. Kenwood has long been a leader in creative housing.

Also on the tour is the Harvey House in Makepeace. Ninety percent energy efficient fans move air from the south glass area to a 200-ton underground heat storage battery.

The group will also stop at the Batteau House in Sheldon Park and the Dows Lake Middle School. Dr. Tony Batteau has won three design awards for his original solar energy ceiling windows. The Dows Lake School now heats all its hot water with sunlight.

Reservations can be made by calling 555-9809.
